How Corporate Media Protects Globalists Like Biden

When we say that there is a conspiracy of globalist elites seeking to destroy the United States, oftentimes the most basic pushback to that proposition is that it would require too many people to be “in the conspiracy” and therefore it would not be particularly “secret.”

To begin with, the idea of a globalist conspiracy of international elites that seek to destroy the United States in effort to consolidate absolute political power that is decoupled from any accountability is not particularly secret nor has it been for some time. In fact, members of the globalist conspiracy like to brag about it. One of many such examples can be found in the 2002 David Rockefeller autobiography.

It is a mistake to think the globalists are letting everybody in the media in as part of the planning process. For that certainly is not true the role of the media. Their role is to simply not report on things that would be damaging to the globalists and to report vociferously on things that would advance the globalist agenda. Members of the media do this because they understand that if they want to get ahead in their career, all they need to do is advance globalist policies. We see this with the advancement of liars (e.g. Brian Williams) and rapists/deviants (e.g. Matt Lauer).

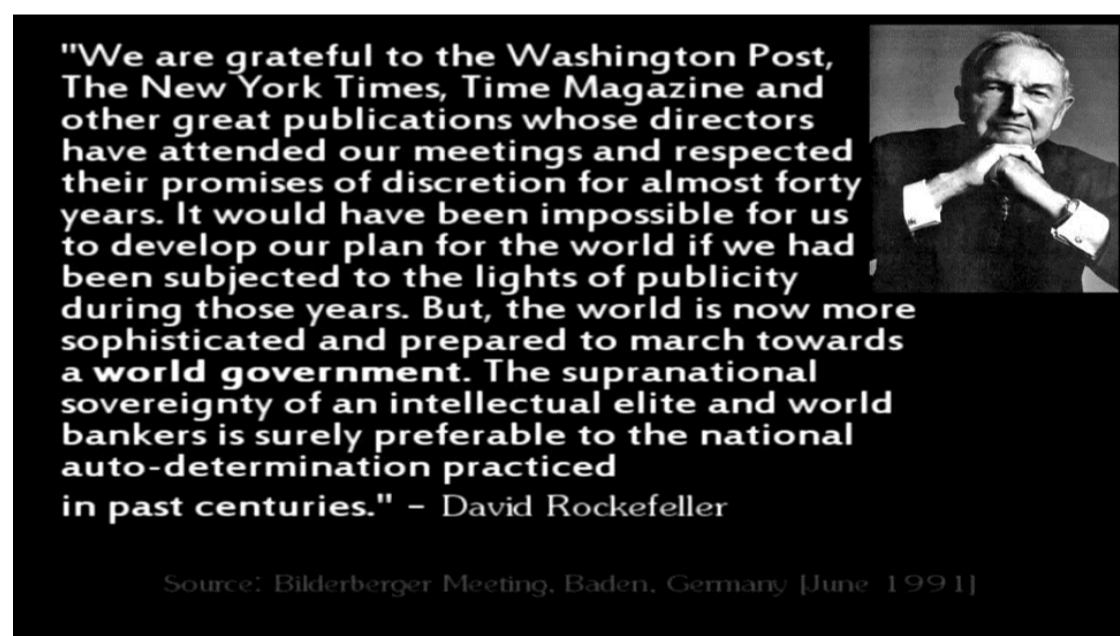

In operation, this is how the process works, as told by Chester Ward, a powerful Admiral who was a former member of the Council on Foreign Relations but got out when he discovered what they were all about:

“Once the ruling members of CFR have decided that the US government should adopt A particular policy, the very substantial research facilities of the CFR are put to work to develop arguments, intellectual and emotional, to support the new policy, and to confound and discredit, intellectually and politically, any opposition. The most articulate theoreticians and ideologists prepare related articles, aided by the research, to sell the new policy and make it appear inevitable and irresistible. By following the evolution of this propaganda in the most prestigious scholarly journal in the world, Foreign Affairs, anyone can determine years in advance what the future defense and foreign policies of the United States will be. If a certain proposition is repeated often enough in that journal, then the US administration in power - be it Republican or Democrat - begins to act as if that proposition or assumption were in established fact.”

The CFR and related globalist organizations let the media know what it is they can report on and they follow suit with the understanding that compliance means career advancement and refusal means your journalism career will be limited to writing obituaries in a 10th tier media market.

This brings us to the globalists and their current protection plan over the usurper in chief Joe Biden.

Scripture tells us that the holy spirit can cause confusion in the ranks of the enemy. We saw this on a grand scale in the Book of Judges, Chapter 7. And we still see it today!

WURD Radio host Andrea Lawful-Sanders admitted during a CNN interview Saturday that that Biden's team sent her eight questions to ask ahead of his interview on "The Source" last Wednesday. The questions centered around Biden's accomplishments, debate performance, progress in both Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, what's at stake in the election, and what he would say to voters who are considering not voting in the presidential election.

While the host has since resigned, the forced resignation was not because she has zero journalistic integrity, but because she committed the crime of admitting it!

WURD, a radio station in the swing state of Pennsylvania was, of course, not the only radio station to get instructions on what could be asked of the president. Wisconsin is also a swing state and the cycle repeated there as well!

2nd local radio host says they were given questions ahead of Biden interview

"Yes, I was given some questions for Biden," Earl Ingram told ABC News.

Biden: 'I don't think anybody's more qualified to be president'
ABC News' George Stephanopoulos interviews President Joe Biden on "This Week."

A second local radio host on Saturday told ABC News that he was provided a list of questions in advance of his interview with President Joe Biden this week.

Consider the words of a member of the media who seems to be completely ignorant of journalistic integrity:

"Yes, I was given some questions for Biden," Earl Ingram of CivicMedia told ABC News. Ingram, a prominent host of a Wisconsin radio station, interviewed Biden this week in the wake of his debate performance.

Ingram said he was given five questions and ended up asking four of them.

"I didn't get a chance to ask him all the things I wanted to ask," he said.

Ingram told ABC he didn't see anything necessarily wrong with the practice. "To think that I was gonna get an opportunity to ask any question to the President of the United States, I think, is a bit more than anybody should expect," he said.

He continued that he was grateful for the opportunity to interview Biden at all.

"Certainly the fact that they gave me this opportunity ... meant a lot to me," Ingram said.

So called members of the media are more concerned about the positive personal financial impact of covering for Biden than they are in revealing the truth of who and what he is.

Comments from the Biden administration on this topic would be comical if the reality of the situation was not so dire and impactful. For the Biden staff tried to play off the scandal as "business as usual" (which it certainly is) but promised not to do it again, as Continued CNN:

"A Biden campaign spokesperson on Saturday did not deny that the campaign provided questions but said that "We do not condition interviews on acceptance of these questions."

"It's not at all an uncommon practice for interviewees to share topics they would prefer. These questions were relevant to the news of the day — the president was asked about this debate performance as well as what he'd delivered for black Americans," spokesperson Lauren Hitt said in a statement.

The Biden campaign said later Saturday it will no longer suggest questions to interviewers."

Is that like a pinky promise?

This process has been in the works for a while. In a follow on installment, we look at the historical background of how we got here...

This mess is so far from what the founding fathers envisioned for a government. Will you help us set it straight?

What can YOU do about this?

Get educated and get active in your community!

Use these guiding principles to form your team:

We believe the American system of government, a constitutional Republic, is the finest ever developed by man.

We believe the traditional moral values of our Judeo-Christian heritage form the cornerstone of western civilization and that the family is the most vital unit of society.

We believe the free market system, competitive capitalism, and private enterprise afford the widest opportunity and highest standard of living for all.

We believe in the dignity of the individual. We welcome people from all ethnic racial and religious backgrounds judging others only by character and ability - as we wish to be judged ourselves - our common bond is a love for liberty and our rejection of totalitarianism under any label.

We believe that individual rights are endowed by our creator, not government; that the government's function should be limited to protecting our right to life, liberty, and property; and that individual rights are inseparably linked to individual responsibility.

The fight continues!
